The Cass makes DOMUS Top 100 list again

The Sir John Cass Faculty of Art, Architecture and Design has once again been named among the best schools in Europe by the prestigious and influential DOMUS Magazine.

The Cass made the cut to feature in the 2014 edition of 'Europe's Top 100 Schools of Architecture and Design', released annually by the Italian publication. It's the second year in a row that The Cass has been featured by DOMUS, which cites the Faculty's focus on employability as a key strength. The Cass is one of only five schools in London to make the list.

Elsewhere, the The Moscow School of Architecture (MARCH), which London Met helped establish in the Russian capital, was also included in the Top 100.

DOMUS believes that employability is a major consideration in young people's study choices and has established the guide as a point of reference for guidance on educational options in the architectural and design worlds. DOMUS also recently published feature article about The Cass, it's new studios, projects and approaches to teaching.

Notes to editors:

The Cass

The Cass is internationally recognised for its high quality teaching, excellent facilities and unique interdisciplinary opportunities. Learning through practice, playing with process and working with clients, students at The Cass gain real world experience in both individual and collaborative projects, engaging with professionals, communities and companies.

There is a strong emphasis in our studios on socially engaged Architecture, Art and Design applied to both local and global contexts, and many projects focus on London. Our central London location also gives you easy access to the creative and cultural hub which surrounds the Aldgate Campus.

London Metropolitan University

London Metropolitan University has a rich history with strong educational roots dating back to 1848.

The University as it is today was created in 2002 with the merging of London Guildhall University and the University of North London, the first merger between two universities in the UK. Its roots however, lie firmly in the nineteenth century with the establishment of the Metropolitan Evening Classes for Young Men, in 1848.

At London Metropolitan University we believe that everyone has the right to an accessible quality education. Our students enjoy the highest levels of support and our courses recently received top marks from the UK's Quality Assurance Agency. We are proud of the diversity & achievements of our students, alumni and staff.

Here at London Met we put our students at the centre of all we do. London Met is a great place to study, located in the heart of one of the world's most exciting cities. We stand out because we offer courses of quality, in a vibrant, socially diverse environment, which will help launch your career.

We are committed to helping our students build rewarding careers. Courses are designed and updated to be directly relevant to the current employment market. London Met is as dynamic and multicultural as the city in which it is situated. Here you will meet and work with people from around the world, who will enrich your development and learning. Since our students come from a range of backgrounds, we have always made sure that the education we offer is accessible and flexible.
